BURDEN OF LIFE WAS TOO GREAT

Annie Seibert Could Not Endure Disappointment.

ENDED HER LIFE WITH ACID

SHE WAS FORCED TO SEEK UNCONGENIAL EMPLOYMENT.

(After She Was Discharged From the Place She Liked Life Seemed to Lose Its Charm for This Sensitive Girl.

For three busy, contented years 18-year-old Annie Seibert of 2833 De Kalb street, a good girl and a good worker, had been employed in the great, sweet, woody-smelling basket factory across the street from Arsenal Park, happy as the birds in the park trees.

She was discharged last March, and Monday night she terminated a three months' period of grief and disappointment with a vial of carbolic acid, swallowed at the gate of her home and in sight of her sisters.

After taking the poison she staggered to her room.

"Come, mother! I'm dying!" she called. Within an hour she died in Mrs. Seibert's arms.

Annie's heart was broken when she was discharged from the basket factory, her mother sobbingly said Tuesday morning.

"For three years while working there she was happy and gay, and for three months after her discharge she hung her head and grieved."

To the mother and the three sisters that mourn for the dead girl the tragedy of her life was not wrought Monday night.

The draught of poison was not an epilogue. The prologue was in the words of the foreman when he told the young girl to leave the factory.

The sentence was perhaps just, but to the girl it was as the flaming sword that barred the gate to her paradise and sealed her mind till death seemed a relief.

Her girlhood had been spent in the basket factory. All her friends were there, and her fortune, too, for by shaping 60 dozen baskets a day she could earn $1.25.

Then Her Work Seemed All Play.

It was play, not toil, to work the sweet-smelling wood into the basket ready for the hand of the finishing touch. With the other girls by a bit of gossip, perhaps a snatch of song, deft fingers and skillful, she had earned her stipend without thought of the happiness that the work and association brought. The factory had been a work-room, a home and a playground.

Then came the discharge.

The girl's spirit was broken. After a while she found employment in a cotton-spinning factory near her home. All day she sat at her machine in the dusty work-room putting the cotton in the machine and pulling the long strands to and fro. The whirling wheels drowned all talk. The inanimate machine must be fed continuously, and at the end of the week her salary was less than half of her former pay.

The recollection of the basket factory, the good pay and pleasant work was madening. The contrast weighed on the girl till she could no longer endure her lot. Calmly she prepared for the end. Monday night she went home from the cotton factory with a locket picture of herself pinned on her bodice. Her brother asked for this picture and was refused.

She ate her supper and left home, the picture still pinned on her dress.

Near 10 o'clock Annie came home. Her father and mother, a brother and several sisters were sitting in the yard and saw her step in the gate and stop.

"Ah, she is waiting for a sweetheart!" said one of the girls, jesting.

But Annie was waiting for death, not love, there by the yard gate. She had swallowed the acid and was in agony. She managed to stagger by the family group and reach her room. Her mother followed, heard the few words that the girl managed to say, a simple statement that she had taken poison. Dr. Miller of 201 South Broadway was called at once. The poison worked swiftly and the dispirited girl died within an hour.

The locket picture is missing. Mrs. Seibert hopes that Annie has left a message with the picture that will be of some comfort to the distressed family.

NO DEGREE FOR MR. M'KINLEY

If He Fails to Attend Harvard's Commencement He Will Not Be Made an LL. D.

BOSTON, June 18.—President McKinley will not be present at the commencement of Harvard University to receive the degree of LL. D., and the university will not confer the degree in his absence. When President Eliot was informed that Mr. McKinley would not be present, he said:

"If Mr. McKinley is not present at the commencement the degree will not be conferred upon him, as there would be no opportunity for the presentation of the degree. The degree is conferred occasionally, but the custom of the college for several years has been to present the degree to those only who are present at the commencement."

Mr. McKinley is expected to be at the commencement of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich., on June 20.

Patrolman Overcome by Heat.

Patrolman George E. Fay of 410 North Grand avenue of the Central District, while standing East Twenty-sixth and the street, fell, falling to the ground unconscious. He was taken to the hospital.

Fay had pursued Richard Hamm, a negro, and caught him at Twentieth and Locust streets.

With Patrolman Nolan he was waiting for a wagon, when he was overcome.

ENDED HER LIFE
AT EARLY MORN

Mrs. Kate Crawford Swallowed Carbolic Acid.

FEARED FOR HER SON'S SAFETY

SHE HAD TAKEN AWAY A LEASE SHE GRANTED.

According to Her Husband Her Fears Were Groundless, but Mrs. Crawford Committed Suicide Tuesday Morning.

Mrs. Kate Crawford, 42 years of age, drank a fatal potion of carbolic acid at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning while her husband slept in their home at 1211 Hickory street.

At 5 o'clock she was found lying senseless on the kitchen floor by her husband, James Crawford.

She died at the City Hospital at 6 o'clock, immediately after her arrival there in an ambulance.

Much fear over a fancied violation of the law by her eldest son, Leslie E. Crawford of Kansas City, is the motive James Crawford assigns for his wife's action. An impaired mentality caused by nervous prostration was the atmosphere out of which her malady arose.

Her surviving sons, Leslie E. Crawford and Charles W. Crawford, are on the way to St. Louis from Kansas City, in response to telegrams from their father.

Mrs. Crawford runs a shooting gallery at 1241 South Broadway. They came from Rich Hill, Mo., to the city to make their fortune. Mrs. Crawford left a farm of 140 acres at that point, according to the story told by Crawford to the Post-Dispatch.

"Not long ago she leased this property," said Crawford, "Leslie went down to Rich Hill to attend to some business there in connection with the land. While there he learned that he had taken the lease away from the people who had the land and had taken the papers back to Kansas City with him."

"My wife, who has been in bad health for a long time, worried about the matter. She received a letter from a lawyer in Kansas City who wrote, it seems, for the people who had the lease, that she had taken the lease away from them. She was very angry and I presume that the custom will be adhered to this year."

"She was afraid that Leslie would be arrested for it. I assured her that she was not, but she was so worried that she could not sleep. She had been complaining, too, about being a burden on the rest of the family, but she never intimated any way that she thought of committing suicide."

"I went to bed about 12 o'clock last night. I just remember in my sleep that I heard her move as she left my side. It must have been about 1 o'clock. I was too sleepy to get my eyes open. She went out to the kitchen and took poison. The bottle was beside her on the floor. I found her at 5 o'clock and sent for a doctor, but it was too late."

HUNGER FORCED HIM OUT.

"Charley the Woodchopper" Captured by Waiting Officers.

TACOMA, Wash., June 18.—Charles Stewart, alias "Charley the Woodchopper," who killed George Swanson near Olalla, Saturday, was forced by hunger to leave his hiding place today in search of food and was captured by a sheriff's posse near Gig Harbor. Stewart says his captor, J. W. Greenwood, is a wealthy farmer living near Lampasas Springs, Tex., and he will not talk about the murder until he has written his relatives, whom he expects will take steps to defend him.

SHOT HIMSELF IN THE STABLE

Young Herman Kirchner Had Been Melancholy.

LEFT NOTE TO HIS MOTHER

HE HAD WORRIED OVER THE ILL-NESS OF HIS FATHER.

Two Weeks Ago the Young Man Fur-chased a revolver in Belleville, and Tuesday He Used It With Fatal Effect.

KIRCHNER'S.

June 19.
DEAR MOTHER: Forgive me for what I am about to do. Don't worry about me.
I am going to meet in heaven with many of those I love. I remain your loving son, HERMAN KIRCHNER.
P. S.—I hope father will get well soon.

Herman Kirchner, 22 years old, of Belleville, Ill., late Monday night or early Tuesday morning, seized with a fit of melancholia, shot himself in the abdomen and then in the right temple. His body was found lying across a box in the loft of the stable Monday morning.

The sickness of his father, Herman Kirchner, a pattern maker for the pump and skin works, is attributed as the principal cause of his mind being temporarily unsettled.

In his room a note was found addressed to his mother asking forgiveness for what he was about to do and expressing the hope that they would meet in heaven and that his father's sickness would be only temporary.

His family had noticed for some days that he was very melancholy and abstracted and was greatly affected by the sickness of his father, whose place at the Pump and Skin Works he was forced to fill.
Believing he was unfit to take his father's place, he became very unhappy. Two weeks ago he purchased a 38-caliber revolver and after that time his mother and father watched him carefully, fearing that he intended to take his life.

Monday night Mrs. Kirchner was awakened by her son, who came into her room at a late hour and said "goodbye." Mrs.
Kirchner asked him what he meant, and he said that he only wanted to say good night to her.

He went to his room and extinguished his light. Friday morning Mrs. Kirchner, arising early, and that her son's room had not been occupied. A note was on the table, addressed to his mother.

On the back of the note was written:
"Good-by to all my relatives and friends."
Mrs. Kirchner, upon finding the note, ran down stairs and across the street to the home of Mrs. Margaret Doenke, where she told of her son's disappearance and asked for his help in tracing him.

Mr. Kirchner searched the house for his son and then, finding that his revolver was missing, went to the barn, fearing that he had committed suicide. In the loft of the stable, lying across a box, he found his son's body. In his right hand was the revolver.

To avoid being followed before he could commit suicide Herman Kirchner took the key of the stable from the kitchen, unlocked the door and went out by the rear.
He placed the key in the kitchen and then went back into the stable through the rear door and then locking that on the inside went to the stable loft and shot himself.

It With Princeton Students.

teams and H. L. Gehring of Pittsburgh started from Philadelphia Monday on an automobile trip to Pittsburgh.

ing made is owned by H. L. Gehring of Fell From a Car.—While attempting to step from a street car at King's highway and Maryland avenue Monday Mrs.

Kate Boneright, 63 years old, of 503 Mc-Pherson avenue fell. Her knee was sprained and she was painfully bruised.

THE CZARINA OF THE RUSSIAS FOR THE FOURTH CONSECUTIVE TIME PRESENTS THE CZAR A DAUGHTER

THE CZARINA OF RUSSIA.

Much Disappointment Expressed That the New Comer Is Not a Boy, as It Would Have Solved a Lot of Royal Problems.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 18.—The Czarina
today gave birth to a daughter.
The fact that the new comer is a girl is a disappointment. The Czar has already three children, all girls, and he has taken no pains to conceal his anxiety for an heir to the throne in direct line. Before the birth of the last daughter, public prayers were offered that the child might prove a son, and so keenly did the Czar feel his disappointment that he kept away from public functions for several days.
There is recalled the words he uttered
when his first daughter, the Grand Duchess Olga, was born:
"The Czarina and I are extremely pleased to have a daughter. This child is ours, and ours alone. If a son had been born he would have belonged to Russia."
The significance of the birth of a fourth daughter is apparent when it is remembered that female heirs cannot ascend the throne of Russia as long as there is a male heir. The Czar has three sons, and the question which thousands are asking is: Who will succeed him on the throne
if he should die without leaving any son?
The answer to this question seems at first glance very easy, and yet none of the keenest political prophets in Europe would hesitate to give it.
The present heir to the throne is unquestionably the Czar's brother, Duke George. He, however, is said to be a confirmed invalid, and, furthermore, he has never shown that he possesses any of those qualifications which a ruler of all the Rus-sias should possess. Now, the Muscovites, more than any other race in Europe, are accustomed to strong, energetic and a weakling would never find favor in their eyes. There is no doubt that they would eagerly accept Duke George if in the natural course of events he were called to the throne, but there is equally no doubt that they would remain restive under his sway.

Duke George is well aware that he is ill fitted to hold the reins of government, and those who know him best are confident that he will at an early date renounce his claims to the succession. Nay, they maintain that the only reason why he has not done so before now is because he hoped that the child just born to his brother would be a son, and he naturally thought that in such an event he could peacefully and without attracting undue attention waive his own claim to the throne.
If he is resolved not to succeed his

DRAPED THE BREWERY "AD."

Announcement Not Acceptable to People of Church So It Was Carefully Covered.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 18.—Because an enterprising solicitor who drummed up advertising matter for the program of the Illinois music teachers' convention failed to discriminate against an equally enterprising brewery manager the association came near finding itself without a meeting place. The solicitor sold the brewery man a whole page of the program, and the brewery man occupied it with a large advertisement of his special beer, set in bold type and printed in red ink.

The good people of the First Methodist Church, in whose building the convention is to be held this week, saw the program and the gaudy advertisement. At first they were shocked; then they were indignant.
Then they notified the musical folks that none of the programs should come within the sacred portals of their edifice.

The convention managers were in quandary. There was not sufficient time to get out a new program, and there was not another hall in the town suited to the special needs of a musical convention. In blank despair they cursed that advertising solicitor. Not until the convention was with the officers of Gov. Yates' church.
The solicitor was proof against the epithets; the officers of the church were as stone.

Finally a bright mind suggested a remedy. He had read of how the women of a town out in Mrs. Carrie Nation's country once draped the suggestive posters of a dizzy burlesque show and he said: "Why not drape the brewery ad." The proposition was accepted, and when the musicians came to Springfield they were surprised to find that one page of their otherwise artistic program cover had been plastered over with a sheet of blank paper.

Mothers, do you know that a perfectly healthy baby never cries. When the little one does cry there's something wrong, and generally it's the stomach. Paregoric, Soothing Syrups, Gordials, Teething Syrups and Pain Killers contain opium and morphine. Don't use them. They are harmful—costly too. Such drugs constipate and derange the digestive organs.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and Herb Laxative Compound

is pleasant to take, augments and supplies the natural digestive ferment, acting as a gentle laxative by the power to assimilate food, makes and keeps babies in health and good humor. A trial will convince you.

GENTLEMEN: For constipation I would cheerfully recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. My little girl, aged eight months, had been troubled since birth with constipation, and reading of your valuable medicine I concluded to try it, and I can recommend it highly to mothers for immediate relief. Only two ten-cent bottles cured my baby.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by all druggists. If not sent us his name and we will send a bottle FREE. 50 cent and $1 bottles. It is economy to buy the $1 given up trying to keep housegirls. The store, the factory, the restaurant, the hotel and other places beckoned Bridget and she went. Other housewives play a sort of hit and miss game with the "help" all the time. Sometimes they have luck and often not. Meanwhile, they are learning to do without.

And the daughters of America are getting all sorts of knowledge at cooking schools. Some of them can already make several kinds of marble cake. If the worst comes to the worst and the Concatenated Girls go on a general strike, we can live on cake for some days. Johnny will turn the winger and no one will suffer very much. There will be no one to fuss with and no one to fire.

There were many street car accidents Sunday. Of course the handling of immense crowds created a liability to accidents, but that does not justify them. If Superintendent Grant was sincere in his statement to the Post-Dispatch he will carefully examine into the circumstances and act accordingly. Accidents must be reduced to the unavoidable kind and the chances of any kind reduced to a minimum. St. Louis will not be in the right condition until the safety of the public on the streets and in the street cars is assured.

HOW THEY PREVENT STRIKES.

The method of preventing strikes in the building trade, in vogue in Boston, has been successful for ten years.

The employers believe that it is for the interest of both parties that the workmen's unions be recognized. Hence union men are preferred, but in case a non-union man is employed there is no disturbance. The men know there must be some good reason for it.

"All questions of mutual concern" are referred to a joint committee appointed annually. This committee has absolute power to settle all demands and both parties bind themselves to accept its awards. In case of a tie the casting vote of the umpire is decisive. The umpire must not be an employer or a workman. For the first three years of the agreement John D. Long, now Secretary of the Navy, was umpire, but was never called upon to act. William Lloyd Garrison succeeded him and served two years and acted but once. Charles Francis Adams is umpire at present. He has settled one dispute.

Experience like this is worth a dozen theories. It is a solution based upon considerations of cold common sense and practical expediency, and it works.

The real core of it, of course, is self-control on both sides and a willingness to treat each other as reasonable men who would rather do right than wrong. If employers and workmen would always approach the subject of their common interests in this spirit, controversies would cease to disturb private and public life.

Tuesday is the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, which was won by raw levies of British aided by Belgians, Brunswickers, Hanoverians and Nassauers, who had never fought together. Napoleon's force was mostly veterans and each army numbered about 70,000. It is not in American wars alone that new troops have won battles.

The Cubans hate Senator Platt of Connecticut, but their cartoonists are picturing Senator Platt of New York, through mistake, as the enemy of Cuban liberty. The New York Senator, assailed both at home and abroad, justly and unjustly, is becoming almost as conspicuous politically as Pier Morgan financially.

Mark Twain was touched up in one of the local pulpits last Sunday, in a sermon preached from the text, "Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thy inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." In view of this text, many may wonder why the flag has been hauled down in China.

The Government is to put up at the World's Fair a much better and more attractive building than it had at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago. This is a hint from Uncle Sam that the Fair should in every way excel the great Chicago exhibition.

With eight monster British transports ordered to New Orleans to convey American horses and mules to South Africa, it is very clear that if the war in the Dutch republics is near an end the fact is not realized in London.

Total abstainers are now getting lower life insurance rates. By what he saves on bar bills and insurance, the abstainer ought to be exceptionally prosperous.

These are black days on the Berlin Bourse. Business is at a standstill and sales are made at a heavy loss. Yet "the abundance of money continues."

POST-DISPATCH SNAP SHOTS.

Col. Infant of the Filipino army does not appear to be a very warm baby.

With famine, rebellion and an enormous indemnity to meet, the Chinese cannot be expected to take on much foreign religion this year.

The pessimistic papa of the baby buffalo in Forest Park wanted to kill it as soon as he saw it. No wonder the buffalo is becoming extinct.

Instead of asking his ma how he should proceed to organize a society for the prevention of cruelty, the young King of Spain has just attended a bull fight.

One week before the anniversary of Waterloo the British have been surprised and defeated at Steenkopspruit, in a war that was supposed to have ended months ago.

Eleven American judges have been appointed for the Philippines. Doubtless they are all benevolent gentlemen who will keep the Constitution a long distance from the flag.

As the 400 farmers of Oklahoma whose crops have been destroyed by a storm have had good crops for five successive seasons, they will not be distressed. The foresight of President McKinley in providing large crops for so many seasons cannot be too highly commended.

Pakenham, who had the distinction of having been defeated at New Orleans by Jackson, appears in print as Pakenham, Peckham and Packham, but hardly ever with his proper spelling. It is almost as difficult to find Pakenham without a "c" as to find the biblical Samson without a "p."

Dangerous Tactics.

From the Washington Post.

Abuse of Representative Babcock by those Republican organs that have gone on protection will not drive that sturdy champion of Republican principles and policies out of the Republican party.

The man who in four successive congressional elections, has led his party on to victory, will not be dismayed because he encounters scurrilous attacks for having pointed the way to a continuance of the series of victories. The leader whose fidelity to the cause of protection has impelled him, in the interest of his party, to protect against the most flagrant abuses of protection is on safer ground than is occupied by any of the politicians in or out of Congress, who demand adherence to tariff schedules that are planning the public for the enrichment of monopolistic combinations.

A "Platform Democrat."

From the Jefferson City State Tribune.

Governor Dockery has coined a new phrase. He is not a phrase maker in the usual acceptance of the term, but he has constructed recently a phrase which deserves wide consideration. David B. Hill, the sage of Wolfers, once declared, "I am a Democrat."

Governor Dockery has put a proper amendment upon the hill declaration and says, "I am a platform Democrat." We think the Dockery amendment is a rather a compromise, but a declaration of weakness. It does not require explanation, qualification or elucidation. It is a 100 per cent declaration.

Car Fenders.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Through your paper I desire to call the attention of the Board of Public Improvement to a fender described and illustrated in the last number of the Scientific American, who's endorsement should certainly warrant an investigation. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Having been out of the schoolroom for 30 years or more, I am somewhat ignorant in geography, with its many changes, so I have asked several children 12 and 14 years of age, belonging to our public school, how many territories we now have.

None could tell. I know that the word "territory" is a word which has been dropped, but I do not know what the word orthography means. What is wrong? IGNORANCE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

For the benefit of "inquiry," and especially for "ex-First Missouri Volunteer," the one "who knows where he speaks," I will say the phrase, "I'm from Missouri," was used in Colorado some time before the Spanish war was heard of. The story, connected with the origin of the expression, is as follows:

Shortly after the great strike of miners at Leadville, Colo., a large number of men were imported from Joplin, Mo., to take strikers' places. It seems that some were threatened with all sorts of violence at the Reading and Thinking.

Your editorial of the 8th inst., "Don't Read Too Much," is very appropriate. In a note about it, mine, called "Gems of Thought," I express almost the same ideas that you do in your editorial. This article is a style assimilation of thought, as follows:

"The man that can associate ideas possesses a faculty far superior to the man who has a gigantic memory. Memory is a great strain on the mind, that is for a man to cram a vast amount of data and indigest it. But he who can assimilate ideas can at any moment recall or relate a circumstance without any strain whatsoever."

I will say that we cannot have enough of Carnegie. Give us all the book people. The trouble is with the people. Most readers never read a book with a digest, but they say how many books they can read in a given time. Bacon says: History is for memory; poetry for imagination; philosophy for reason. I suggest that the majority of readers who serve this rule of three, they will begin to think unkindly. J. A. MARTIN.

THE POST-DISPATCH SKETCH BOOK.

ONE OF THE BRAVEST OFFICERS IN THE UNITED STATES ARMY IS AFRAID TO FIRE A GUN, ALTHOUGH HE HAS FACED THOUSANDS OF THEM MANNED BY HOSTILE HANDS ON THE FIELD OF BATTLE.

He served with distinction both in Cuba and the Philippines, and his personal courage, save this one weakness, is celebrated among his comrades.

He was graduated from a private military school in which his practice was "a custom more honored in the breach than the observance," and he was not forced to subdue his terror of a gun while there. When the call for volunteers was issued he secured a commission because of his military education. He didn't say anything about the weakness. Here is the story of it as he tells it.

"When I was 19 years of age I was a Missouri town my father had a flock of ducks light in a field short distance from the house one day and I thought it would be great sport for me to shoot father's gun and kill a dozen of them at one shot."

"The gun was empty and I called a friend into my confidence and he said he would assist me in loading it. He was the meanest boy in the whole town and he didn't lose the opportunity to play a trick on me. He half-filled the barrel with powder and hammered the wad on the shot."

"I slipped upon the ducks and, when I thought I was in range, I tried to put the gun to my shoulder. My reach was several inches short and the stock rested under my arm."

"But I fired anyway."

"There was a mighty roar and a recoil that would have been creditable to a 12-inch gun."

"This story was told by the mate of a Mississippi river steambot."

"I guess, up to six months ago, I was the wickedest man cruising on the Mississippi, and that's saying a good deal."

"Today, I am trying to make a feeble way, to live according to the Christian precepts."

"A song set me on the right way."

"I met her in a bar, a year later, my wife died. She had lived a Christian life and her death scene was emblematic of life. Her last prayers were for me. She knew I was wicked and she begged me to be better."

"It may be a silly thing for an army officer to say, but that was my last shot."

DOES RUSSELL SAGE

MR. VROOM HAD UNCLE RUSSELL'S "PUT" ON 500 C. R. I. & P.

TOLD HIM TO BUY AT 130

This Millionaire Failed to Do and the Stock Ran Up to 155, Hence the Action.

NEW YORK, June 18.—In the Supreme Court of this state a suit for $25,000 has just been brought against Russell Sage, who introduced the business of trading in "puts" and "calls" by Robert D. Vroom, who for years has been accustomed to buy these privileges from him.

The action is an outgrowth of a difficulty which occurred on May 3, the day of the week.

Mr. Vroom came into Mr. Sage's office on the morning of that day holding, among others, "puts" sold by the latter on 500 shares of Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific. The stock in which Mr. Vroom had the privilege was then selling at 130, according to the tape, that if he could buy them about these figures he could then sell them to Mr. Sage at the figures named in his "puts" and make a net profit of many thousands. He handed his privileges over to Mr. Sage—who has them yet—and asked the financier to buy in the stock for him as a broker, whereupon he would sell them to Mr. Sage at the "put" price.

From this point the stories diverge. Mr. Sage said recently in discussing the matter.

Rock Island was selling at 130 when Mr. Vroom, who held my puts on 500 shares at prices ranging from 140 to 155, gave me an order to buy at the market. I turned the order in to my brokers. But the tape was 25 minutes behind time and the price they had to pay for the stock was 155. This showed no profit to Mr. Vroom, but I could not help it.

V. F. Miller, the plaintiff's attorney, said in the course of an interview, explaining his client's case:

"Mr. Vroom demanded back the privileges, but could not get them. 'Now those privileges were worth more than the actual profit that could have been made on them in the transactions he authorized Mr. Sage to make. We think we have a good case.'"

Mr. Sage, through his counsel, has obtained an extension of time till June 30 in which to file his answer.

CITY NEWS.

When one sits under the Dome at Crawford's and looks skyward, and views the mighty spire of canvas, not to catch the breeze, but to keep out the sun, he can almost imagine himself on the quarter deck of the mighty "Oceanic" crossing the Atlantic on one of those beautiful, hopeful days of June! Try it! If you can't go Euro-ward try Crawford-ward; just as good and a great deal cheaper!

ACCIDENT AND CONSUMPTION

New York Jury Decides the One Can Cause the Other and Gave Damages to Widow.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. NEW YORK, June 18.—The assertion that a man may acquire heavy consumption as the result of injuries received in a railway accident was sustained in the Supreme Court, when a jury awarded $12,500 damages to the widow of James J. Hoey.

Hoey was hurt while traveling in a car on the Dry Dock line and died of consumption.

Hoey was 23 years old and in good health. He was bruised about the neck and spine was injured. He became hysterical and laughed and wept alternately. He was an invalid for three months, but he was able to leave his house, but he wanted away and his hands and arms whirled up. Six months later he died.

The defense of the company was that Hoey died of heavy consumption. Tuberculosis could not possibly be caused by an accident," said the railroad lawyers contently.

"Most decidedly it could," said Dr. Cyrus Edson. "The heavy consumption was caused by the accident and by nothing else."

Counsel for the company said that consumption could not be acquired like a fracture, and that they would certainly appeal the case.

The actual claim is that the accident placed the man in such a weakened condition that he was more readily preyed upon by consumption "bugs" which he could easily have "downed" had he been in his usual health.

SENT HIM TO THE CHAIN GANG

South Carolina School Principal Had Brutally Whipped a Young Girl Pupil.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. LAURENS, S. C., June 18.—Like Hughes, principal of a school, was sentenced to the chain gang for 30 days for cruelly whipping Miss Bertha Finch. The young woman has been confined to her bed for a month as the result of the whipping received from her schoolmaster.

Ends of two big switches were shown in court as evidence of the whipping the girl received. She had been stripped from her shoulders to her knees. The skin was bruised and broken on her back and legs. The girl, who is 15 years old, is pretty and well developed for her age.

The jury found the schoolmaster guilty on the first vote.

Mrs. Davis Looking Forward

Aged Widow of Jefferson Davis Writes Feeling of Her Infirmitie and the Future.

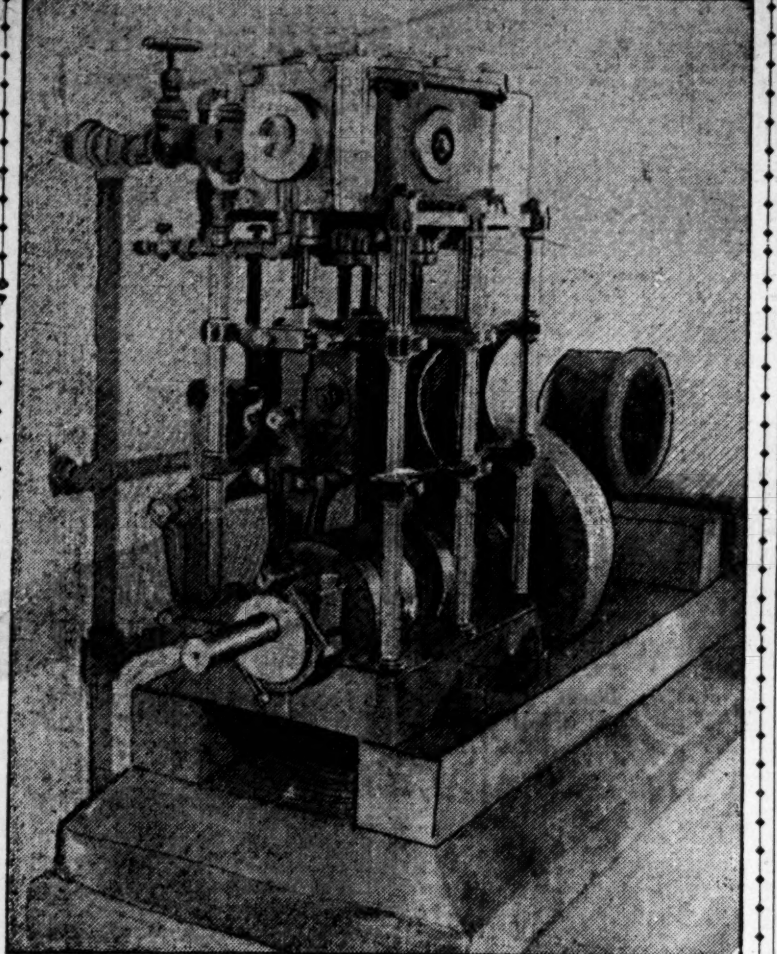

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. ATLANTA, Ga., June 18.—R. E. Park, state treasurer of Georgia, has received a letter from the widow of Jefferson Davis, in which she speaks feelingly of the coming afflictions of old age.

Mr. Park, who is a friend of the family, says the letter is remarkably cheerful for one who has so much to contend with. Mrs. Davis says:

"I am unwell, I feel imperceptibly onward to the inevitable and natural end of all mankind. My health has failed a good deal of late, but I never look sick, and every one tells me how well I am. I suppose on the Christian Science plan, I am just going to render an account of myself in the body. I am really happy."

GRADUATES BUILD AN ENGINE

Engine commenced by the class of 1900 and completed by the class of 1901, Manual Training School, which will be graduated Wednesday evening.

Compound Engine Constructed by the Senior Class of the Manual Training School Placed on Public Exhibition.

From 9 o'clock next Tuesday morning until 1 o'clock in the afternoon there was a public exhibition of the shop work and drawing of the graduating class at the Manual Training School, at Eighteenth street and Washington avenue.

The feature of the exhibition was a small compound engine built by the graduates. It is a very correct, the engine has been completed by this year's class, the work having been begun by the class of 1900.

The high pressure cylinders of this engine are 2 1/2 inches in diameter and the low pressure cylinders 4 1/2 inches in diameter. The common stroke is 3 1/2 inches, and the engine is designed to give from four to five horse power with 200 pounds initial pressure.

G. Y. East, instructor in machine shop theory and practice, supervised the work of the students in building the engine. He is very proud of their work, and says they not only did all the work necessary to the construction of the engine, but even out some of the patterns. C. U. True, one of the instructors, cut most of the patterns.

It is the first elaborate engine that has been built by the students for several years. The graduation exercises will be held Monday evening at the Odéon. The graduates are as follows:

Beck, Ernest; Kellough, Raymond; Benoit, Van Francis; King, Harrison Phillips; Brown, Chas. Swing, Jr.; Schuler, Joseph Frank; Cassell, Charles Fred; Leckinger, John, Jr.; Chapman, Benjamin; Lankier, Frank Dennis; Galine, Charles; Lenz, Alvin John; Charbonnier, George; Marshall, Elias True; Case, Clark; Edwards, John; Darby, Clifford Torrey; Dawson, James Clifford; Day, Ernest Bush; Day, Leonard Aleck; Egan, Thomas George; Edwards, Julius Carter; Eggers, Charles Fred; Grether, Walter Scott; Hawkins, Carl Leon; Hodgson, Charles Levi; Hopple, Raymond; Jones, Albert; Jones, Beverly; Jones, Fontaine Monry.

COL. JOHN O'DAY AGAIN WED

His Marriage to His Stenographer Creates a Stir in Springfield and Recalls St. Louis Troubles.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 18.—Society here is still talking of the wedding of Col. John J. O'Day, which occurred last week. His bride was Miss Sula Baldwin, formerly his stenographer, who played an important part in the proceedings at the time the former Mrs. O'Day tried to kill herself in a St. Louis hotel.

This is Col. O'Day's third plunge into the sea of matrimony. The first Mrs. O'Day died of him, quarreled with him and finally secured a divorce and $50,000 alimony. This was away back in 1887. Col. O'Day was then attorney for and vice-president of the St. Louis & San Francisco railway. Before the year was out Col. O'Day had married his second wife, a girl named Sula Baldwin. She had been his stenographer. The second Mrs. O'Day secured a divorce last fall and was allowed a cool $25,000. She had quarreled a great deal with Col. O'Day, it developed, over all sorts of matters. Finally in July, 1900, she tried to kill herself in the Lindell Hotel, St. Louis.

After that came the divorce proceedings. Col. O'Day is 56 years old. But he doesn't look it. He used, once on a time, to be the Richard Croker of Missouri. But he was forced out of control of the "Frisco" and since then has been in retirement—in the vernacular, he has been "sent to the barn."

CABANNE HEIRS LOSE SUIT

Judge Fisher Decides That Mr. Simmons Has Sufficient Title to Westmoreland Place Home.

Judge Fisher Monday afternoon decided the suit of E. C. Simmons against the Cabanne heirs in favor of the plaintiff, as was ruled in the late editions of Monday's Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Simmons filed the suit to quiet the title to the lot in Westmoreland place on which his beautiful home is built. There had been considerable talk of a suit by the Cabanne heirs to have the title to the very valuable section lying between King's highway and Union avenue, Olive street road and the River Des Peres, vested in them and Mr. Simmons decided to forestall their effort.

The Cabanne heirs claimed the property as the heirs of John Charles Cabanne, who died in 1884. His will left the property to John B. Sarpy and Lucien D. Cabanne in trust for the benefit of the heirs. In 1872, the defendants contended, Lucien D. Cabanne gave a quitclaim deed to 128 arpents to Sarpy Carr Cabanne. This transfer was against the provisions of John Charles Cabanne's will, the heirs contended. They, therefore, asked that this transfer be set aside and the title to the property be declared to vest in them.
